Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The above claims are indefinite as to their scope because the limitation in instant claim 1, lines 19-27 where the $M_k(T_i)$ is obtained in advance “based” upon data (a), (b) and (c), where conditions (a), (b) and (c) are relationships between various parameters renders the scope of the claims indefinite since there is no clear recitation as to a) how the $M_k(T_i)$ value is “based” upon the various “relationships” recited and b) there is no recitation as to exactly what the “relationships” are between the various measured parameters, thereby rendering the scope of the above claims unclear to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by the article “Detecting Grain-Boundary Chromium Depletion in Inconel-600” by Airey et al (Airey et al). Airey et al teaches non-destructive inspection of grain boundary attack due to thermal sensitization of a chromium containing nickel alloy through the measurement of the saturation magnetization of a test piece at various temperatures (the Magnetic permeability measurement method) and calculating the chromium depleted volume therefrom, thereby showing all aspects of the above claims since as stated above the value $M_k(T_i)$ is so broad as to include any value or relationship and is therefore met by the process of Airey et al.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 2 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Each of Walker and Takahashi are also cited as further examples of prior art methods of measurement and inspection of material properties through the detection of saturation magnetization values.
